Issue #2

July, 1986

The Cream Shall Rise! is the official publication of the North American Zine and GM (Runestone) Poll Custodian. The pollster is Bruce Linsey, 73 Ashuelot St., Apt. 3, Dalton, MA 01226, USA. Phone (413) 684-0567. Publication is on an annual basis.

The cost of this publication is: FREE to any publisher who printed the ballot and voted, $1.00 to anyone else who voted, and $2.00 to anyone else.

Permission to reprint from this publication is granted freely and without restriction to anyone. Publishers are asked to please plug and/or review this publication, and are encouraged to print any or all of the Poll results in their zines. (The main lists in the three categories are of course the most important of the data contained herein.)

The Cream Shall Rise! is dedicated to John Leeder, who founded the Runestone Poll.

A Note of Thanks

In any major endeavor, it's easy to overlook the people who work hard behind the scenes for the success of the project. In the 1986 Runestone Poll, the main person laboring out of the limelight is Nelson Heintzman, my assistant. Nelson's job is twofold: he serves as an alternate repository for ballots and as an independent check of the results.

His function of collecting ballots is the easier of the two jobs. The main part of this task is, after his voting deadline has passed, to transcribe all the ballots he's received onto blank, unsigned ballot forms and send them to me minus names (and with no other identifying marks). Also, he sends me separately a list of those who voted through him. The transcribed ballots are placed in random order so that I can't match them to the list, which is alphabetized. That way, secrecy from me is preserved for those who, for whatever reason, choose not to send me their ballots. It is important that this feature be available because, questions of right or wrong aside, there are people in the hobby with whom I have had difficulties. (This does not imply that I've had problems with everyone who elects to vote through Nelson!)

Once I receive the transcribed ballots from Nelson, they are entered into my computer along with all the other ballots, except that I use number designators (NH1, NH2,...,NH15) instead of names. Then, after my deadline has passed, I can run the program against all the ballots.

Nelson's other task is the hard part: verifying results. This is subdivided into two activities: checking to make sure that the actual ballots were recorded accurately, and checking the math to arrive at the final results.

In order to verify the actual ballots, Nelson needs to see them, so I xerox each and every ballot I've received (196 of them this year) and send him the copies. (Nelson, like me, is required to hold all votes in strictest confidence.) Nelson then contacts any voters he chooses and reads them (or sends them copies of) their ballots, asking for verification. (He records all expenses, and I reimburse him for this.) After he has contacted enough people to satisfy himself that all votes were accurately recorded, he then proceeds to perform the math for any publications and GMs he chooses, and satisfies himself that the reported results are calculated correctly. Hobbyists may ask Nelson to check up on any particular publication or GM, and within reason he will comply. The math is tedious especially for the preference matrix scores, so without the benefit of a computer, Nelson would be hard-pressed to verify all the results, but he's willing to review anything that anyone finds questionable.

A mathematical error on my part would be extremely improbable because the computer program has been thoroughly tested and debugged. The only possible source of error would be if I were to type in a ballot wrong, and I have an online verification routine that I perform frequently throughout the polling period to catch such things.

Anyhow, once Nelson is totally satisfied that everything is OK, he will prepare a public statement verifying the results (and his overall role in the polling process as described above) and send it to various publishers for print. Anyone who wants a copy of the statement directly from Nelson can obtain one from him (Nelson Heintzman, P.O. Box 203, Bowmansville, NY 14026) for a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The statement should appear some time in August or so.

As you can see, Nelson's job is not an easy one, and it carries a great deal of responsibility. Thus, I was quite selective about who I asked to assist me in 1986, and I was grateful indeed when Nelson accepted my offer. Many thanks, Nelson, for all your hard work (some of which lies ahead).

Nelson has already agreed to continue as Assistant Runestone Pollster in 1987, and I'm delighted to keep him on the team. And besides, someone who shares my birthday (August 16) can't be all bad. Right?!

--Bruce Linsey

The Scoring Method

Following is an explanation of how the final Runestone results are obtained.

1. The Modified Mean is simply a mean (average) of a given set of scores, taken after discarding the top 10% and bottom 10% (both rounded down) of the scores. Thus, for a zine which receives 27 votes, the two highest and two lowest scores are dropped. The remaining scores are added together and divided by 23. The modified mean is taken for all three categories: zines, subzines, and GMs.

2. The Preference Matrix Score (pref score) measures how a given zine fared compared to others. Thus, it is a relative ranking rather than an absolute one. Each zine on the main list is paired up against each other zine. For any given pair of zines, only the ballots assigning scores to both are considered. The zine rating higher on more ballots "wins" its contest with the other. An example will help. On page 16, note that Costaguana defeated Diplomacy World by a score of 15 to 7 on 31 ballots. This means that of the 31 ballots naming both zines, Costa was rated higher on 15, DW was rated higher on 7, and the remaining 9 ballots had them rated equally. So Costa wins that contest, 15 to 7 (though the score is immaterial to the final result).

After the results of all contests for a given zine are determined, we then subtract its losses from its wins to get a raw score. Let's use DW, also on page 16, as our example. Note that DW defeated 50 of the other zines and lost to 9 of them. (DW had no ties, but they are ignored in this calculation anyway.) So DW's raw score is  $(50-9) = 41$ . Since 60 zines made the main list, a raw score can vary from -59 to 59.

The raw score is then translated onto a 0 to 10 scale (to make it compatible with the modified mean, which has that range) by dividing by 59, multiplying by 5, and adding 5. The result is the pref score. Thus, for DW, the pref score is  $41/59 \times 5 + 5 = 8.475$ .

Pref scores are calculated only for zines on the main list.

3. The Final Score is used to give the final rankings. For subzines and GMs (and for zines which did not make the main list), the modified mean is used. For main list zines, the mean is taken between the modified mean and the pref score. That is, they are added together and divided by two. Thus, a zine's final score is influenced equally by its absolute rating and its relative rating, both of which are important.

Zines needed ten votes to hit the main list; subzines and GMs needed five. All results were calculated to the nearest thousandth.

The tie-breaking procedure used is to consider scores in the following order of preference:

1. The Final Score
2. The Modified Mean (zines only)
3. The Unmodified Mean
4. The Number of Votes

In practice, no two zines even had the same final score. On the other hand, there were a handful of GMs still involved in ties even after all this!

A BIT OF COLOR COMMENTARY...

The preference matrix contests sort of remind me of a long baseball season. Any zine can win a head-to-head competition against any other: it's performance in the long haul that really counts. Thus, note on page 22 that No Fixed Address came within a whisker of tying Costaguana (and marrring that zine's perfect pref score), while at the same time settling for a 2-2 tie with the 41st-place The Dragon's Lair. Note that Europa Express demolished Praxis in their head-to-head contest, and Praxis in turn beat It's a Trap!, which in turn edged out Europa Express...

The preference matrix is fun!

Wonderful Costaguana: Sparkling Gem of the Hobby!

Conrad Friesner von Metzke is forever playing pranks on us hobbyists. He produced one of the most imaginative hoax zines of all time: the fake Moeshoeshoe of several years ago. His story of how Mongo housed the very first postal Diplomacy game ("1962A") was only recently revealed for the gigantic hoax that it was. His 1977 "lung cancer" issue fooled a lot of people, and his "April Fool" issue this year did the same.

But by now his readers have caught on to what a practical joker this remarkable individual really is. Thus, we weren't fooled when Conrad modestly proclaimed, in response to one reader's prediction that his Costaguana would make the Runestone top five, that "I don't expect that result this year, though, and in all candor I don't think it would be justified if it happened. Trying my damndest to be objective...I would place myself ninth." And no siree, we weren't about to be taken in when Conrad declared that it would be "wrong" for Costa to place ahead of Graustark, Kaissa, and some others. You see, we knew that it was all just another von Metzke prank and that our suspicions were correct: Costaguana is truly a gem among dipzines; the finest journal in the hobby in 1986. And so we voted it the Diplomacy hobby's most prestigious award: the North American Zine Poll championship.

What a sensational year Costaguana has had! By rising an unheard-of 43 places in the standings, it has also captured the title of "Most Improved Zine", and I doubt any hobbyist would seriously dispute that claim. It isn't only Conrad's masterful writing that makes his zine the best (though he's the finest active writer in today's North American hobby); it isn't just the size of the issues (though his recent efforts have typically ranged up into the forties and fifties of pages); no, Costaguana is number one because of Conrad's unique personality: his compassion for others in and out of the hobby, his ability to make new subbers feel right at home, his talent for taking a stand on a hot issue without offending anyone. The reason Conrad's publication is the hobby's most popular is thus, in a word, Conrad.

That is not meant to imply that others don't contribute to Costaguana -- indeed, Conrad has inspired a splendid letter column and a marvelous ongoing houserules forum, both heavily participated in by people with a broad variety of backgrounds and viewpoints. The forum is possibly the most relevant and useful discussion to appear in a hobby journal in years; the letter column focuses on topics from stamp collecting to alcoholism to Libya to zine archives to car seats for babies to the Runestone Poll to...well, you name it. Even the press for the games in Costa is entertaining (especially if you don't object to a bit of, er, off-color humor now and then); hell, even the games' titles are a riot: "The Extroverted Emu", "The Bisexual Bear", "The Delirious Dik-dik", and so on.

Yet despite all of the excellent contributed material, the best parts of Costaguana are the warm, personal fuzzies -- most especially the Ross and Eric Departments. By now, many of Costa's readers feel as if they know Ross and Eric von Metzke (ages 7 and 4 respectively) personally. I certainly feel that way, though I've not yet had the privilege of meeting Conrad and his family.

I could go on and on, but any description I could write would not do justice to the man and his wonderful zine -- you'll have to subscribe and see for yourself what I (and many others) are raving about. Conrad once remarked in response to a complimentary letter that "Lord knows I try, and it's awfully good to hear that people enjoy..." Well, Conrad, it's clear how hard you have tried for the past year, and the 1986 Runestone Poll is proof positive that lots and lots of people thoroughly enjoy your efforts. Please accept my congratulations on a job well-done: the cream has, without question, risen to the top. And that's no joke!

Questions have arisen regarding which votes I will or will not accept. The following sorts of votes are automatically discarded:

- votes for oneself or one's own publication
- votes for non-North American GMs or publications
- votes which are not a whole number in the 0 to 10 range
- one vote which was clearly a political statement, and not for an existing publication

So far, I've been accepting votes even if I know that the publication or GM was not active in the polling period, or does not deal with Diplomacy. To date, no non-Dip publications have made the main list. But, if one of them (e.g. The Buzzard's Breath) were to receive the required number of votes, I'd probably not include it on the main list anyway. I'd record the votes (as I did above) and include it on the non-main list page despite its having the required number.

Nepean, Ontario: Subzine Capital of the World!

Ron Brown and his wife, Ann Fothergill-Brown, really ought to go into business together, and their specialties would be raising lovely children and publishing award-winning Diplomacy subzines. They seem to do both with astonishing skill and regularity. When they aren't writing their subzines to keep us hobbyists entertained, Ron and Ann keep busy raising their two young sons, Christopher and James. Prouder parents can't be found anywhere!

Ron and Ann started their campaign to have their home town of Nepean, Ontario declared the world's subzine capital in 1985, when Ann's MeANNderings won the Subzine Poll. An immaculately-written travel column, it was always one of the best parts of Ron's zine, Snafu!. Not to be outdone at his own game, Ron has come back strong in '86 and kept the subzine title in Nepean for another year by winning it all with D-Day!.

And a much-deserved win it is. D-Day! is more than just another subzine. It actually adds a touch more class -- and a bit of contrast -- to the already great No Fixed Address. Where Hutton is the eager young beaver ready to flip the hobby and the world upside-down; Ron in his subzine is the thoughtful, fatherly type, commenting quietly yet insightfully on the events around him in the hobby, at home, and on the job. He commands respect just in the way he writes. His penetrating, literate commentary (not to mention his very good GMing -- see the GM Poll results) have propelled D-Day! to the subzine title this year.

Ron's and Ann's matching subzine championships leave us with but one question: when, oh when, will this talented husband-wife publishing team revive the late, greatly-missed Snafu?

D-DAY!

Volume 11, No. 3

D-Day is produced by Ronald J. Brown, 70 E. Glenorton,
Warren, Ontario E2E 5S9. Telephone: 613-727-1454.

Its purpose is to report on postal diplomacy and. Diplomacy is produced by Waddington's House of Cards in America, Ontario. This is published as a substitute of No Fixed Address.

Notes

You can tell it's that time of year again. Christopher and I built his first snow man, complete with carrot nose and onion eyes. Christopher asked us to make fingers and toes so I explained that eyes are very difficult to make small things with snow. I told him that Santa had asked me to make a snow present....And James' eyes grew huge with wonder when he saw Christmas lights and decorated trees....Christopher wants Santa to bring him a sled-and James doesn't care as long as there's lots of colour and excitement.....I hope you all enjoy this season as much as it promises to be for us.

A thought to think upon: our priest (a woman, which in a sign that the 20th century slowly getting here) remarked in her sermon Sunday that 8,000 people commit suicide every year in the USA and half of these are over 65. Most suicides occur this time of year. The causes are obvious. So please bring cheer to that elderly forgotten relative as the darkness of deep winter closes in. It doesn't take much, I wish they could all see Christopher dressed as a sheep for the church Christmas pageant. It warms my heart at least.

The Chinese New Year tradition requires one to pay all his debts before the new year begins. Not a bad idea. Perhaps we could adopt the spirit of the tradition and pay our moral debts before December 31: forgive and forget in order to clear the house for the new. If only Via could forgive us our debts, eh?

Before I forget, I owe Bill Quinn and Kathy Byrne apologies for my public comments on the 1983 AI affair. Bill was kind enough to send me copies of all correspondence on the subject, at his own expense, and reading through all of it puts a different perspective on the decision to declare this game irregular than the excerpts which were printed in various sines. While I still disagree with the methods used to determine irregularity, Kathy's decision was reasonable given the current state of knowledge of the rules of RMC. I do disagree with her conclusion, however. The whole case raised fundamental questions on the role of the WMC which I intend to examine in depth once 1983 AI is completed. Stay tuned.

The Master Wins Big!

Unless you've been living in a cave on Mars for the last half decade, you already know that Gary Coughlan publishes what may arguably be the greatest Diplomacy zine ever produced. What isn't quite as well-known -- except to those fortunate enough to have played there -- is that Gary's GMing is just as superb as the rest of his zine. I know this, because I have played in one of his games, and without hesitation I can tell you that Europa Express is a player's dream come true.

The reason for this is clear. Good gamesmastering requires a high degree of commitment, and Gary's commitment to excellence is unsurpassed by any other hobbyist. His games are not just your normal, run-of-the-mill adjudication reports; they are flawlessly-composed masterpieces. Each game has its own map, a distinctive cartoon apropos to the current situation in that game, and a page of its own on different-colored paper than the rest of the zine. And -- talk about your classy touches -- each adjudication is printed in the language of the leading country in that game. With all this incredible effort, Gary has singlehandedly raised Diplomacy GMing to a new art form!

Europa Express is too bulky to come out right at the deadline each month, but that doesn't faze Gary -- he sends out all the adjudications separately to the players, always on time, month in and month out. (They are reprinted in the zine.) Very few GMs can claim to have run games for five years without ever having been late; Gary is one of them. To my way of thinking -- and the Poll results say that I'm far from alone -- there is no finer experience for a Diplomacy player than to have the privilege of playing in a game run by Gary Coughlan.

In winning this year's GMing championship, Gary joins John Michalski as only the second person in history to have won in both the Zine and GM categories. My congratulations to Gary on a richly-deserved first place in the 1986 North American Gamesmaster Poll.

Frosting on the Cupcake

Knight Cops Both Rookie Honors!

"Who's that newcomer soaring way up high?"

"It's a bird!"

"It's a plane!"

"It's a Trap!"

Somebody ought to explain to Steve Knight that it's supposed to take a while to achieve excellence in the arts of publishing and gamesmastering. Steve -- "Cupcake" to his loyal friends and followers -- has done it now. He has gone and upstaged a lot of experienced publishers by capturing third place in his very first Zine Poll. By comparison, perennial champ (or near-champ) Europa Express started out by modestly taking 6th place in its rookie year; other first-year finishes have included 5th place for Excelsior, 10th place for Voice of Doom, and (believe it or not) 28th place for No Fixed Address.

Steve's high standing in his first year is thus astonishing -- or at least it is until you peruse the pages of his beautiful new zine, It's a Trap!. IT! is an absolute joy to receive and read. Steve's writing skills are just phenomenal, and the quality of its written material is thus his zine's most remarkable feature. This talent manifests itself whatever the topic: whether Steve's describing a trip to DipCon, relating how he accidentally severed part of his thumb, or just plain amusing us readers with still another imaginative table of contents. (I'm serious: the tables of contents in It's a Trap! must be seen to be believed!)

The content of the zine is itself extremely good as well. Steve is currently running a highly successfully United league (a soccer simulation exceptionally well-suited to postal play). His letter column is the home of several pithy debates, focusing largely on the merits of various films (and their actors, actresses, and directors), and on the question of censorship of explicit films or music which might attract adolescents or children. Other topics come and go -- the only subject Steve rigorously avoids is hobby politics -- but the discussions are always stimulating because they are so relevant and so literate. Hobby tradition, move over for this year -- It's a Trap! well deserves its high placement in the standings and its Rookie of the Year award!

And, lest this Knight still have a woeful countenance, he has also won Rookie of the Year honors in the GM Poll. His distribution of votes (9-9-9-9-9) says it all: consistency! Obviously Steve has started out on the right foot as a GM, and it's safe to predict great things for him and for It's a Trap! in the future.

My congratulations to Cupcake for being voted rookie honors in both the Zine and GM Polls.

Double rookie honors in 1986 for Steve Knight
and his It's a Trap!

Where to Write

For the benefit of hobby newcomers reading this, here are the names and addresses of the top ten zines and GMs.

Zines

1. Costaguana, Conrad von Metzke, P.O. Box 17602, San Diego, CA 92117-0602
2. Europa Express, Gary Coughlan, 4614 Martha Cole Lane, Memphis, TN 38118
3. It's a Trap!, Steve Knight, 2732 Grand Ave. S #302, Minneapolis, MN 55408
4. Praxis, Alan Stewart, 25 St. Mary Street, Apt. 702, Toronto, Ontario, CANADA M4Y 1R2
5. Excelsior, Bruce McIntyre, 6191 Winch St., Burnaby, British Columbia, CANADA V5B 2L4
6. Diplomacy World, Larry Peery, P.O. Box 8416, San Diego, CA 92102
7. Diplomacy Digest, Mark Berch, 492 Naylor Place, Alexandria, VA 22304
8. The Zine Register, Simon Billenness, 61A Park Ave., Albany, NY 12202
9. No Fixed Address, Steve Hutton, 1175 Broadview Ave. #711, Toronto, Ontario, CANADA M4K 2S9
10. Magus, Steve Langley, 2296 Eden Roc Lane #1, Sacramento, CA 95825

GMs

1. Gary Coughlan (see address for Europa Express above)
2. Mark Larzelere, 7607 Fontainebleau #2352, New Carrollton, MD 20784
3. Dave Kleiman, 651 Fenster Court, Indianapolis, IN 46234
4. Jim Benes, 417 S. Stough, Hinsdale, IL 60521
4. Andy Lischett, 2402 S. Ridgeland Ave., Berwyn, IL 60402
6. Dave Carter, 118 Horsham Ave., Willowdale, Ontario, CANADA M2N 1Z9
7. Jeff Richmond, P.O. Box 3288, Ann Arbor, MI 48106
8. Steve Knight (see address for It's a Trap! above)
9. Ron Brown, 70 F Chesterton Dr., Nepean, Ontario, CANADA K2E 5S9
10. Matt Fleming, 445 W. Gilman, Apt. 401, Madison, WI 53703

Those of you looking for new zines to sub to, or new games to join, could do much worse than to send off a request for a sample and information to the publishers and GMs listed above. Be sure to include a stamp or two (or about 50¢ to Canadian publishers -- vice versa if you live in Canada)!

Hobby Services:

The Zine Register, ranked eighth in the Zine Poll, lists the names, addresses, and pertinent info for most of the publishers in North America and a number of those elsewhere. It's $1.50 from Simon Billenness (address above).

Supernova and Masters of Deceit are Novice Packets -- publications specifically designed to help the novice into the game and hobby of postal Diplomacy, or to further the skills of the veteran player. Supernova is available from me (Bruce Linsey, 73 Ashuelot St., Apt. 3, Dalton, MA 01226) for $1.00. Masters of Deceit is available from Steve Arnawoodian, 602 Hemlock Circle, Lansdale, PA 19446, also for $1.00. The Zine Register is included for free when you purchase either of these!

Once Upon a Deadline is a handbook (if you can call a 200+ page publication a "handbook"! ) for Diplomacy publishers and gamesmasters. It's available from me for $3.00.

The Voters

209 people voted in the Zine Poll.
 96 people voted in the Subzine Poll.
 140 people voted in the GM Poll.

} These figures include the ballots received by Nelson Heintzman.

There were votes received from seven different nations: the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, The Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, and Gabon. (Gabon!!) I wish to express my appreciation to all 211 of you voters. Every vote you submitted added to the significance of the final results, and made the Poll that much more meaningful.

The following publications all devoted space to publicity for the 1986 Runestone Poll. Thanks...to the publishers of (in no particular order)

Diplomacy Digest	Cathy's Ramblings	Frobozz
Costaguana	Bushwacker	Europa Express
Diplomacy World	Macabre	Not New York
Life of Monty	Kaissa	No Fixed Address
Murd'ring Ministers	Excelsior	(the fake) North Sealth, West George
The Not for Hire	It's a Trap!	Liberterrean
The Appalachian General	Politesse	Ter-ran
Praxis	Pommes Mit Mayo	The Razor's Edge
Stab-back	The Home Office	Quinipique
The Diplomat	The Zine Register	The Alamo City Times
Feuilletonist's Forum	The Messenger	Boast
Sleepless Knights	Magus	War & Peace
Dippy	Diplomag

...and anyone (though I hope it's no one!) that I may have missed. Without publicity from these 38 (!) publications, the voter turnout wouldn't have been so high.

Overall Distribution of Votes

	0	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	Total	Mean
Zines	27	39	39	59	89	166	272	308	358	241	213	1811	6.864

All Categories	56	61	68	97	146	253	384	483	551	433	375	2907	6.906

Last year, the average vote for zines was 6.792, and I publicly hoped for a 6.850 or better this year. Well, I got my wish! And indeed, I feel that the hobby's zines are on the whole better now than they were a year ago. The score would have been higher still if not for the sole remaining feud publication and two or three irresponsible folds. Next year, these zines won't be eligible, so (at the risk of shooting too high?), perhaps the zines in 1987 will be worth a collective 6.900 or better.

The improvement in subzines' scores was tremendous. Last year's average was 5.871, and I meekly hoped for a "lofty" 5.950 or better. I'm astonished that this goal was far exceeded. There is not the slightest question but that this reflects the demise of last year's hate publications, which turn most people off. For next year, let's shoot for a collective 6.400 or better, hey?

GMs last year scored 7.661, and I stated that we'd do fine just to match that in '86. Well, we did -- almost on the nose! The hobby continues to demonstrate a much higher regard for its GMs than for its publications -- I wonder why this is so. In any event, I'm gonna be a wimp again in this category, and hope "only" for another 7.663 (or better) in 1987. (Nothing at all wrong with that figure!)

Please note that my high hopes for next year are not a plea to voters to slacken their voting standards, but rather a plea to publishers and GMs to keep up the great work, and strive always to improve still more.

Can YOU Pick the Winners?

Shortly before the 1986 polling period began I had the pleasure of a visit from Simon Billenness, and at one point we both sat down and independently predicted which zines would make the top ten this year. My predictions, which I had the foresight to save, were:

1--Praxis, 2--Europa Express, 3--Costaguana, 4--Excelsior, 5--No Fixed Address, 6--It's a Trap!, 7--Diplomacy World, 8--Diplomacy Digest, 9--Frobozz, 10--Perelandra.

I hasten to add that this is not a list of my ten favorite zines (though several of these would make it, albeit in a different order); it's just the order in which I predicted they'd finish.

If I were to add up all the differences between my predictions and the actual placements (scoring e.g. 4 points for my NFA pick because I picked it as #5 and it actually finished 9th), then I'd have a total of 55 points. How many of you think you could score better (i.e. lower) than that? How many of you think you could pick the top ten pretty accurately in 1987? I may be willing to run a "Pick the Top Ten" side contest in conjunction with next year's Poll if there's enough interest -- with entries costing a dollar, say; prizes to the best picks and any leftover money used to defray costs of printing the Runestone Award certificates.

Then again, Larry Peery has already expressed concerns about my doing something like this and I can see his point too: could it possibly bias the Poll results? That's of course the most important question. Your opinions; would it be fun or dangerous?

Number of Runestone Voters by Year

1977 to 1986

It's interesting to watch the pattern of general growth in the number of voters in the North American Zine and GM Poll as it becomes more and more of a hobby-wide project. I have updated last year's chart to include 1986, and corrected a glaring error which, surprisingly, no one except me seemed to notice. (The bars for 1982 and 1983 were reversed last year.)

The 1986 Runestone Awards

Each of the winners listed below is receiving a full-sized certificate of award, suitable for framing, as a tribute to his or her high achievement in the 1986 Runestone Poll.

FIRST PLACE in the Zine Poll is awarded to Conrad von Metzke, for publication of Costaguana.

SECOND PLACE in the Zine Poll is awarded to Gary Coughlan, for publication of Europa Express.

THIRD PLACE in the Zine Poll is awarded to Steve Knight, for publication of It's a Trap!.

FOURTH PLACE in the Zine Poll is awarded to Alan Stewart, for publication of Praxis.

FIFTH PLACE in the Zine Poll is awarded to Bruce McIntyre, for publication of Excelsior.

HONORABLE MENTION in the Zine Poll is awarded to any publisher whose zine finishes from sixth place to tenth, and whose final score is 8.000 or higher. This year's recipients are Larry Peery, for publication of Diplomacy World; Mark Berch, for publication of Diplomacy Digest; Simon Billenness, for publication of The Zine Register; and Steve Hutton, for publication of No Fixed Address.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR in the Zine Poll is awarded to the new publisher whose zine ranks the highest in the standings. This year, the award goes to Steve Knight, for publication of It's a Trap!.

The MOST IMPROVED ZINE AWARD goes to the publisher of the zine which rose the highest in the standings over the past year. This year's winner rose 43 places! The award goes to Conrad von Metzke, for publication of Costaguana.

The GARY L. COUGHLAN AWARD honors sustained excellence in publishing. It is named after the publisher of Europa Express, one of the finest publications in the history of the Diplomacy hobby. In order to win it, a publisher must place his zine in the top ten for three years consecutively -- a tremendous accomplishment indeed. I am proud to announce that the two winners this year are Gary Coughlan himself, for publication of Europa Express; and Steve Hutton, for publication of No Fixed Address.

FIRST PLACE in the Subzine Poll is awarded to Ron Brown, for publication of D-Day! (in No Fixed Address).

SECOND PLACE in the Subzine Poll is awarded to (oh, blast it!) Bruce Linsey, for publication of Hobbytalk! (in Excelsior).

THIRD PLACE in the Subzine Poll is awarded to Chris Carrier, for publication of The Megadiplomat (in No Fixed Address).

HONORABLE MENTION in the Subzine Poll is awarded to any publisher whose subzine finishes from fourth place to tenth, and whose final score is 7.250 or higher. (Note that this requirement has been stiffened just a bit since last year.) This year's recipients are Nelson Heintzman, for publication of Only Yesterday (in Europa Express); Steven and Linda Courtemanche, for publication of High Inertia (in Rebel); Don Williams, for publication of Fiat Bellum (in Magus) and Flick of the Wrist (in Europa Express, though Don tells me it's become a full-fledged zine again); and Rod Walker, for publication of The Compleat Diplomat (in The General).

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR in the Subzine Poll is awarded to the new publisher whose subzine ranks highest in the standings. This year, the award goes to Chris Carrier, for publication of The Megadiplomat (in No Fixed Address).

The MOST IMPROVED SUBZINE AWARD goes to the publisher of the subzine which rose the highest in the standings over the past year. This year's winner rose 30 places! The award goes to Nelson Heintzman, for publication of Only Yesterday (in Europa Express).

FIRST PLACE in the GM Poll is awarded to Gary Coughlan.

SECOND PLACE in the GM Poll is awarded to Mark Larzelere.

THIRD PLACE in the GM Poll is awarded to Dave Kleiman.

HONORABLE MENTION in the GM Poll is awarded to any GM who finishes from fourth place to tenth, and whose final score is 9.000 or better. This year's recipients are Jim Benes, Andy Lischett, Dave Carter, Jeff Richmond, Steve Knight, and Ron (Canada) Brown.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR in the GM Poll is awarded to the new GM who ranks highest in the standings. This year, the award goes to Steve Knight.

The MOST IMPROVED GM AWARD goes to the GM who rose highest in the standings over the past year. This year's winner rose 31 places! The award goes to Melinda Holley.

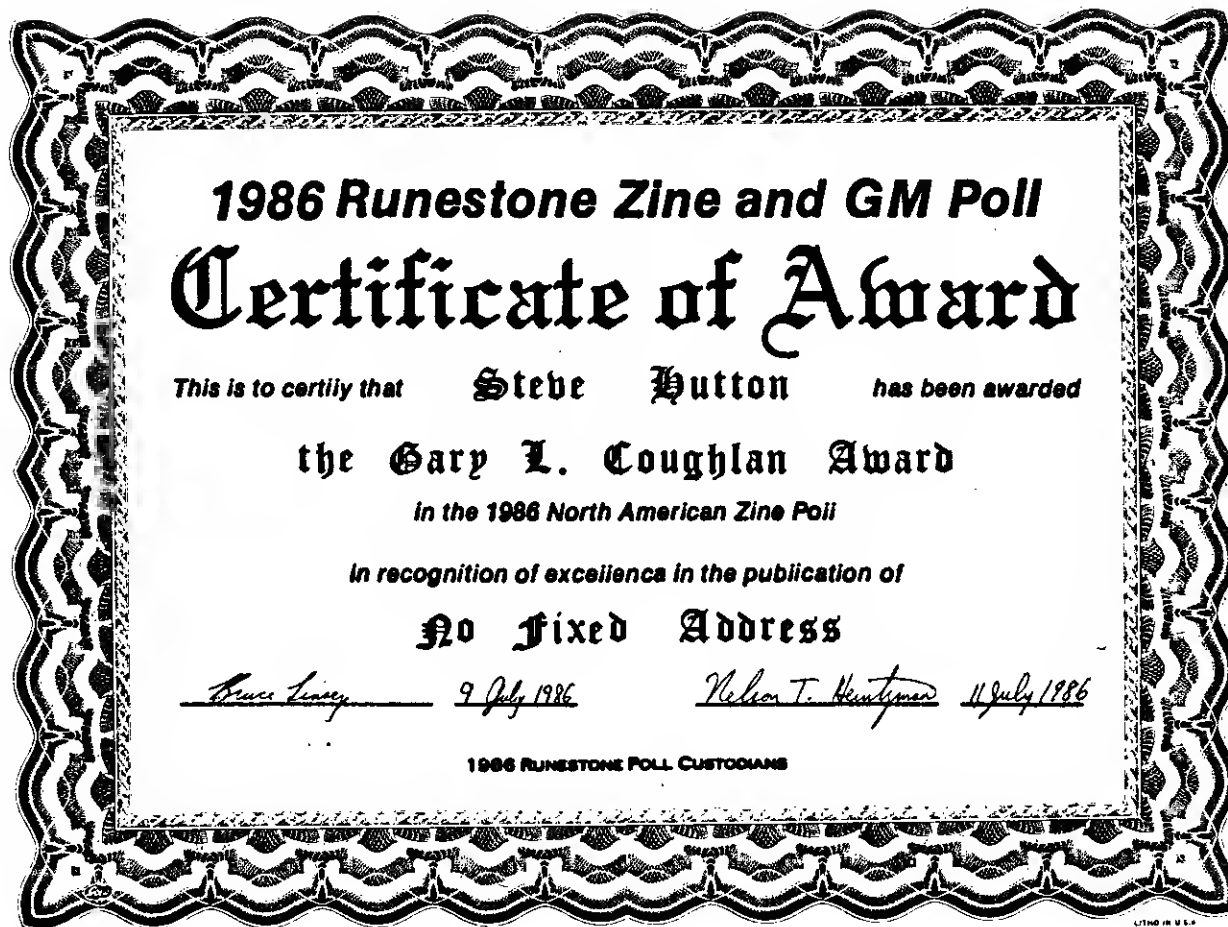

The DOUG BEYERLEIN AWARD honors sustained excellence in GMing. It is named after Doug Beyerlein, one of the top gamesmasters in the history of the Diplomacy hobby. In order to win it, a gamesmaster must place in the top ten for three years consecutively. It is my pleasure to announce that four people are receiving the award this year. The award goes to Gary Coughlan, Dave Carter, Andy Lischett, and Dave Kleiman.

And no formal award, but special congratulations to Simon Billenness for becoming the first person to place zines in the top ten on both sides of the Atlantic...

How about a big hand for all the winners?!

Following are a few examples of the award certificates, photo-reduced. The certificates are actually 8½ inches by 11 inches.

1986 RUNESTONE POLL CUSTODIANS

All-time Great Zines and GMs

Recently, Conrad von Metzke was bemoaning the fact that, while the Runestone Poll standings indicate which zines are good this year, they do not account for excellence over a period of many years. The reason for this is that most hobbyists haven't been around long enough to make judgements about the zines of the past.

I (mostly) disagree with Conrad's assertion that a zine's past should be taken into account by voters in the current Poll. However, this being the tenth year of the Runestone Poll, I thought it would be nice to determine the all-time great zines and GMs, based on their standings in all ten years of the Poll. (Actually, "all-time" isn't quite correct -- shall we call it the Modern Era? OK...)

Scoring is simple: 10 points for a first place finish, 9 points for second place, and so on down to 1 point for tenth place. Zines and GMs with more than 10 total points made the list. (* indicates zines and GMs still active.)

All-time Score	Zine	All-time Score	GM
52	* Europa Express	51	John Daly
27	The Brutus Bulletin	42	* Andy Lischett
22	* Diplomacy World	36	* Gary Coughlan
21	* Diplomacy Digest	28	Doug Beyerlein
20	Runestone	26	Bob Sergeant
18	Claw and Fang	23	* Steve Heinowski
18	Just Among Friends	23	* Mark Larzelere
18	* Sleepless Knights	23	John Michalski
17	* Fol Si Fie	19	Bob Osuch
17	* Graustark	17	* Dave Carter
16	Snafu!	16	Don Ditter
16	The Voice of Doom	15	Lee Kendter
13	* Appalling Greed	13	* Fred Davis
13	* No Fixed Address	13	John Leeder
12	* Excelsior	13	Eric Verheiden
12	Why Me?	12	* Ron Brown (CAL)
11	* Costaguana	12	* Dave Kleiman
11	The Dragon and the Lamb
11	Lies, Deceit, and Nefarious Schemes
11	* The Prince

(Did I miss any of the
"still active" GMs?)

So there they are, the all-time great zines and GMs as determined by the people of the Diplomacy hobby (well, who else should determine them?!). I expect these lists to be debated and discussed by various long-term hobbyists. Is the method of scoring reasonable? What about zines and GMs more than ten years old? Is it fair to rank Excelsior, which hasn't yet hit its twentieth issue, equally with Why Me?, which made it (I believe) into the seventies? By all means, let's debate and argue about these rankings!

I can't seriously see any zine catching Europa Express for a long, long time, if ever. His record here reminds me of Babe Ruth's 714 home runs (though that, of course, did ultimately fall). And he's still going strong!

On the other hand, another good year or three will allow Andy Lischett and/or Gary Coughlan to surpass John Daly as the greatest GM of all time. Two other active GMs, Steve Heinowski and Mark Larzelere, might also put a few dents in the record book before they're through. So stay tuned! If this feature proves popular, maybe I'll run it each year. And maybe we should establish a place in the Diplomacy Hall of Fame for the best zines and GMs of all time?

Polltalk!

As a hobby custodian, I believe it to be part of my job to hear and discuss comments and criticisms regarding the way the Poll is to be conducted -- after all, it's the hobby's Poll! Since this publication is annual, it would obviously not be suitable for an ongoing discussion regarding the Runestone Poll. However, Conrad von Metzke has decided to start a Runestone Poll Forum in his Costaguana. So responses to the letters and questions appearing below can be sent there (Conrad von Metzke, P.O. Box 17602, San Diego, CA 92117-0602) or to me. Responses sent directly to Conrad have a better chance of being printed in full; I'll probably just quote from your letters to me. Any person wishing to participate in the Runestone Poll Forum without subscribing to Costa is welcome to do so -- just let me know and I'll send you copies of the ongoing debate as long as you're participating.

From Arthur Majoor:

...I do have one question about the Poll, and it is: don't people who subscribe to few (or only one) zines have a disproportionate effect on the Poll? Since a person may sub to a zine because a friend writes it, there is a strong temptation to help your friends out. Also, what is a one-zine subber going to compare his/her zine to?

((To take your last question first, no comparison is really necessary in rating a single zine. If you enjoy it a lot, vote it high. If you dislike it, vote it low. If you think it's just OK, vote it somewhere in between.

Mathematically, people who receive few zines do not influence the outcome of the Poll nearly as much as do people who sub to lots of zines. Consider for instance a person who receives but 2 zines and another who receives 10. First, what's their respective effects on the modified mean half of the scoring? The guy who gets 10 zines has 5 times the effect of the other guy, since he votes for 5 times as many zines. Next, consider the effect on the preference matrix. The guy who gets 2 zines affects only one pair of zines; the guy who gets 10 affects 45 pairs of zines. So the latter has 45 times the influence on this half of the scoring as the former! Conclusion: the more zines one votes for, the greater the overall impact of his ballot on the final rankings.

That is not to say, however, that people who get few zines are any less important, or their ballots any less meaningful, than people who vote for lots of zines. The Diplomacy hobby is sort of like a galaxy -- there are a relatively few extremely luminous stars -- and they are its most visible members -- but most of the mass of the galaxy can be found in the smaller and less luminous components (the white dwarves, the red dwarves, etc.). In the same sense a surprisingly large portion of the hobby is not deeply involved in getting 49 zillion zines and playing in dozens of games. People who get only one or two zines form a significant segment of the hobby, and it's important that their opinions be taken into account as well. En masse, their votes do have a significant effect on the absolute (modified mean) half of the scoring -- not an effect out of proportion to their involvement, but enough to matter.

It's my hope that most voters attempt to rate a zine fairly, regardless of whether a friend writes it. In any event, if someone actually enjoys a zine more because the editor is his friend, then he's perfectly justified in voting it high.))

From Chris Carrier:

One thing that makes political campaigns more interesting is that polls are taken during the course of the campaign so people can see how the election is progressing.

I imagine that you probably run partial Runestone results anyway to make sure the computer programs are working properly for the vote count when the poll closes at the end of June.

Why not make these tabulations public? It would add to the enjoyment of the Poll. True, zines would exhort people to vote them up in the poll more if they were behind or in a tight race, but that also happens in Real World elections. At the very least, you might be willing to give out interim results over the phone.

((I agree that interim Poll results would add a degree of interest to the Poll. If one thinks of the Poll as similar to a baseball season, a comparison I've already made, then it can legitimately be asked, "Well, who wants to know only the final standings? It's more fun to follow the thing!"

The problem is that this would certainly harm the integrity of the Poll results, and that's not a compromise I'm willing to make. I don't want to allow the Poll to degenerate into a race among only three or four zines toward the end, and interest would certainly diminish among non-contenders.

Worse, I'd dread the situation of having everyone wait till the last minute to vote simply so they could see how their ballots might affect the outcome -- or still worse, people could "sandbag" by submitting preliminary ballots containing votes far different than those they ultimately intend to cast, to throw others off the track.

No, I cannot even take the risk of allowing any of this to happen, and that is why I will not implement your idea, Chris. Where the Runestone Poll can be fun without compromise to its integrity, I'm all for it (that being part of the point of the thing). But I will not sacrifice one iota of statistical significance for the sake of making the Poll entertaining -- and your suggestion would do just that.))

For the Runestone Poll Forum to be held in Costaguana, I have a few questions to pose. Interested parties may send responses either to me or (preferably) Conrad.

1. What is your opinion of the pollster actively soliciting ballots (as opposed to the passive approach used by earlier pollsters)? Last year, there was somewhat of a furor because I phoned people for ballots -- a practice I didn't indulge in this year. (I mean, when reasonable people like Bruce McIntyre, Ken Peel, and Fred Davis all oppose you, you know there must be something to what they're saying...)

But how do you feel about the pollster attempting to increase the turnout via mass mailings and/or actively soliciting ballots at cons? My own opinion is that anything which increases the turnout is good, since the ideal voter turnout would be 100%. On the other hand, the solicitation cannot be done selectively; it must either be random, or cover as many people as possible. Anyhow, what's your view? Bear in mind when answering that there are quite a few people out there who may want to vote, but simply didn't get around to it sooner. Like Mike Bohannon, when he wrote, "...Keep up the good work. If not for your gentle reminder, I might have even forgotten to vote."

2. Steve Knight recently indicated that he wasn't thrilled about my use of the words "defeated" and "lost to" in the pref matrix contests. I can see his point (and other people expressed the same view last year): it makes the whole thing seem competitive, and some people don't like that. My own thoughts: I do like it. As gamers, we are a competitive lot anyhow; and regardless of how you look at it, a poll rating various zines (or individuals, or whatever) is competitive in nature. It's true that I add a bit more color to the proceedings than needs to be added: the question is whether or not you hobbyists enjoy that part of it. If not, and if a viable alternative method of presenting the pref matrix results is suggested, I'll consider changing things.

3. On page 43, I discuss the possibility of running a "Pick the Top Ten" contest in conjunction with the Poll next year. Do you think this is a good or bad idea?

4. It has been my practice to list the voters each year. In 1985, I had to do this. Various people were eager to tear down the Poll last year, and had I not listed the voters, questions would have been raised publicly about whether I'd actually drawn such a massive turnout. Without being able to name the voters, I couldn't have responded to such questions, and doubts would have been cast on the Poll's integrity.

Now, however, the matter is of far less importance. Basically, the reason I'm still running a voter list is that I believe it makes the Poll more interesting without compromising it at all. However, some people (among them Pete Gaughan) do not like the idea, and think voters' identities should be kept secret. One possible compromise is to list the voters, but allow them to indicate on their ballots that they don't want to be listed (and honor such requests by leaving out those names).

What's your opinion on all this?

5. I've asked this question in the past, and no one's yet attempted to answer it, perhaps because there is no good answer. What determines which publications are subzines? To date, I've not seen a good definition. The problem this year was specifically on the question of Kathy's Korner: is it a subzine or simply half a zine? Kathy herself didn't say a word to me on the matter, so I went with tradition established by earlier polls and listed it as a subzine, though the opposite case can be made just as well.

There probably isn't a single good answer to the question, "What exactly constitutes a subzine?", so how does the following principle strike you? I'll generally list 'em on the ballot as I see fit, with the stipulation that in borderline cases the publisher may contact me and tell me how s/he prefers to be listed.

Is this a fair stance to adopt? If not, how shall I handle the question?

6. Any other comments/suggestions/criticisms about the Poll? Send 'em in for print in Costaguana! I'll be eager to read what you have to say, and I'll be replying. Always, I will strive to run the Poll as well as I can, and I'll consider all reasonable suggestions you may have for improvement.

Again, I request that publishers please plug this publication, and encourage reprinting of the Poll results herein. Thanks again to all of you for your ballots, your help, your support. Now I'm looking forward to the 1987 Runestone Poll with lots of enthusiasm, and I know a lot of you share that enthusiasm with me!

Happy diploming,

Bruce Linsey

Runestone Pollster

You are receiving this because...

- ___ you voted in the Poll and paid me a dollar (ah -- postage money!)
- ___ you voted in the Poll and plugged it in your zine (why, thankee!)
- ___ you didn't vote, but paid me two dollars (hey -- I can buy myself a milkshake!)
- ___ you are quoted herein (probably out of context and against your wishes...)
- ___ you are John Leeder (so this whole thing is entirely your fault!)
- ___ you are Nelson Heintzman (how else are you spozed to verify these results?!)
- ___ you (gasp!) WON AN AWARD!!! (now you've had it!)
- ___ none of the above, but I like you anyway (now you've really had it!)

That's it for this year, sports fans! Runestone '86 has been a Linsey-Nelson production...
